Pain Management Clinic Opens at Bucyrus Community Hospital

BUCYRUS – January 31, 2012 – Amish Patel, DO, Interventional Pain Specialist, is accepting patient appointments for his new practice at Bucyrus Community Hospital. Dr. Patel will be working closely with the Pain Management Group already established at Galion Community Hospital.

Dr. Patel and the clinical staff at Bucyrus Community Hospital are trained to provide the most advanced treatments in the management of pain. Increasingly, these treatments are more tolerable, less invasive and very effective at returning patients back to a better life. Common conditions that result in a pain management consultation include: neck and back pain, pinched nerves, headaches, arthritis, Reflex Sympathetic

Dystrophy, nerve damage, chronic pelvic pain, shingles pain, and persistent pain after surgery.

“I am excited to be able to practice pain management in Bucyrus,” commented Dr. Patel. “It is nice to be able to educate chronic and acute pain patients on all of their pain management options. Pain management is not a medication. It is an array of treatment options and procedures designed to alleviate the pain people are dealing with.”

Dr. Patel received his Doctor of Osteopathic Medicine degree at the Ohio University College of Osteopathic Medicine in Athens, Ohio. He completed his Residency in Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation at the Medical University of Ohio in Toledo, Ohio. Dr. Patel furthered his training by completing an Interventional Spine Fellowship at the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia. He is also the former Associate Residency Program Director at the University of Toledo Medical Center. Dr. Patel is Board Certified in Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation.

In many cases, pain management services are covered by insurance. Physician and self-referrals are accepted. For more information or to schedule an appointment, call 419-563-9853.
